BREAK, 'BOMBSHELL' IN DALLAS

—FEAR 5 DEAD—

Blasts Rip Up Tanker

Anacortes, Wash. (UPI) — The 504-foot tanker Bunker Hill, sailing empty up Puget Sound, blew apart in three fiery explosions before dawn Friday and sank in 300 feet of water off Whidbey Island.

Twenty-five of the crew were rescued by a Navy crash boat and Coast Guard helicopter from the numbingly cold water. All but two were in good condition.

Five others aboard, including the skipper and two mates, were unaccounted for and feared dead.

All apparently were caught, either on the bridge or in their quarters, in the midship section where the explosions centered.

Shorthanded

The tanker normally carried a crew of 44 but was running shorthanded because she was operating in inland waters. The Seattle agent for the ship said 14 men spent the night ashore.

Planes, helicopters and crash boats searched throughout the day in winds and rain storm for other possible survivors. There was little hope. Hours went by with no trace, and survival time in the frigid water was placed at little more than an hour.

Survivors told harrowing tales of the explosions, flames shooting nearly 100 feet in the air, the desperate rush to escape, the danger from burning oil slicks in the water and the chilling cold that penetrated bone-deep in minutes.

Couldn't Explain

None could explain what happened when their ship, owned by the Keystone Tankship Corp., Wilmington, Del., was torn in two in Rosario Strait 10 miles southwest of here.

In Seattle, the Coast Guard said a marine board of investigation will convene in Seattle early next week.

The Bunker Hill, which operated almost entirely in Pacific Northwest waters, was bound from Tacoma, Wash., for the Shell Oil Co. refinery at Anacortes to load gasoline for Portland, Ore.

The crew said the tanks had been washed with sea water and all usual safety precautions taken.

City Light Pays Lawyer $1,000-Per-Month Fee

... DAVID FORMERLY PRIVATELY PAID

By VIRGIL FALLOON

Star Staff Writer

Clarence E. Davis, a private Lincoln attorney, has been on the City Light Department's payroll as "temporary special counsel" since Aug. 1. The Star learned Friday.

Davis is being paid $1,000 per month in this capacity under an authorizing letter approved by Mayor Dean Petersen, city records show.

Mayor Petersen said he and Public Works Director D. L. Erickson "worked out Mr. Davis' employment."

"Of course, the council (City Council) was told," the mayor replied to a reporter's question. "But it wasn't during a regular council meeting, they said.

Two council members, interviewed by telephone, said they knew Davis was on the payroll, but neither could re-board on electric utility matters and negotiations with Consumers Public Power District aimed at consolidating the two distributions systems within the city.

One Hadn't Known

Another council member said he hadn't known Davis was on the city payroll.

"I knew he was going to work for the city as a special legal consultant, but there was talk $25,000 to $50,000 could be raised privately to take care of Davis' fees."

A fourth council member, checked by The Star, also couldn't recall what council discussion there had been regarding Davis, but added:

"I'm certainly going to check into this. I didn't know it was going to be $1,000 per month."

Davis' salary, computed at $12,000 annually, makes him the third highest-paid city employee and the highest part-time worker.

Mayor Petersen's salary is $15,000 and Erickson's pay is $12,800.

City Attorney Ralph Nelson, who heads the city's legal staff, receives $11,300.

Tenure Not Known

Mayor Petersen said he couldn't say how long Davis' services would be required.

Erickson, who heads the department retaining the former CPPD attorney, said Davis "is working very diligently."

Davis had been general counsel for Consumers, prior to going to Washington during the Eisenhower administration where he served as solicitor and later undersecretary of the Dept. of Interior.

Denver Man Dies In Crash

Gering, Neb. (UPI)—A Denver man was killed Friday afternoon when the car he was driving tried to pass a truck and collided with an oncoming car.

The death raised the Nebraska 1964 traffic fatality count to 56, compared with 52 one year ago.

Officers of the Nebraska Highway Patrol said the dead man was Robert Lewis, 64.

The accident on Neb. 71 about 6 miles south of here resulted in a broken nose to Leroy Lewis, 27, Bayard, the other car driver. He is not related to Robert Lewis.

The truck was not involved in the crash.

'Ruby Wanted To Show That Jews Have Guts'

... 7 FLEE JAIL, RUSH PAST COURTOOM

Dallas (UPI) — The state arrested its murderer against Jack Ruby Friday with bombshell testimony that Ruby decided two days before he shot Lee Harvey Oswald to kill him and show the world "Jews do have guts." Before the defense could get started a jailbreak caused pandemonium outside the courtroom.

The state's star witness, Police Sgt. Patrick T. Dean, testified Ruby told him 10 minutes after he shot the accused assassin of President Kennedy that he knew all along he had to do it.

Shortly after Dean left the stand he captured one of the seven jail breakers in the hallway near the courtroom.

Then as deputies and police began rounding up the escapees from fifth floor cells, the trial continued.

OVERRULED

The defense, overruled in shouted demands for a mistrial on the basis of Dean's testimony, immediately moved for a directed verdict of acquittal when it started its case.

Judge Joe B. Brown refused.

Climaxed

Dean climaxed the state's case to put Ruby in the electric chair.

It was 2:55 p.m. CST by the courtroom clock on the afternoon of the third day of testimony in the murder trial when Dist. Atty. Henry Wade rose and said:

"Your honor, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, the state rests at this time."

Belli had just concluded cross-examination of Dean. Over defense demands for a mistrial, Dean corroborated the prosecution contention that the slaying was the pre-meditated act of a sane man.

Smelling Salts

A newsman got Mrs. Bennett smelling salts and she later took the stand after defense attorney Melvin Belli told the eight-man, four-woman jury he would show Ruby was insane when he pulled the trigger.

Wearing a white maternity dress, her eyes red from weeping, the witness said Ruby sent her a $25 money order minutes before he shot Oswald.

"He was crying" when she talked with him on the phone to ask for the money, she said.

Climaxed

Dean climaxed the state's case to put Ruby in the electric chair.

It was 2:55 p.m. CST by the courtroom clock on the afternoon of the third day of four times, the defense demanded a mistrial. Twice Belli demanded contempt of court citations against Wade and his assistants.

Judge Brown turned them all down.

Dean, who has 11 years on the force, said he was on the security detail and went to the fifth floor cell block after the shooting that Sunday morning.

Ruby was "stripped to his shorts," Dean said.

Torn Up'

The witness quoted Ruby as saying he "believed in due process of law" but he was "torn up" over the assassination of the President.

As Dean quoted Ruby: "This man (Oswald) had not only killed the President but also shot officer (J. D.) Tippit."

Dean said Ruby told him he had been "emotionally upset" since the outcome of Oswald's trial was "inevitable" and he "didn't see any sense in prolonging the trial."

Thought About It

Dean said Ruby told him "he thought about this two nights prior, when he saw Oswald at the showup."

Belli demanded a mistrial at this point.

When Dean referred to the comment about Jews, Belli leaped up again.

"Jew-J-e-w," he spelled aloud. "Is that right, officer?"

Again he demanded a mistrial and again he was overruled.

Films Shown

The prosecution started the windup of its case with two silent films of the shooting in the city jail basement.

Ruby sat tensely, seeing himself on screen for the first time. During the filming for the jury, he popped gum in his mouth. Midway through it, he spat the gum out.

The films were shown first with the jury absent. Ruby chewed his fingernails, nibbled at his fingers and watched intently.

Judge Brown approved a defense request to remove one segment of the UPI film before it was shown to the jury. This was the scene showing Oswald on a stretcher, being wheeled to an ambulance.

The defense said it did not pertain to the trial.

Most Lancaster Parsonages Will Lose Tax Exemption

By GERRY SWITZER

Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners indicated late Friday that they would probably place most of the church parsonages on the tax rolls.

Tax exemption has been requested for 121 parsonages and church residences in Lancaster County.

Board Chairman William Grossman said that the board of equalization is in accord with the opinion of the attorney general given earlier this week.

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General Homer G. Hamilton, stated that if the primary and predominant use of the parsonage is that of a dwelling, it would probably be taxable.

The thinking of the board, Grossman said, "is that the basis for our decision should be the primary and dominant use of the property," and if the religious use is merely "incidental," the property should not be tax exempt.

Exemption Unfair

He said it seemed rather unfair to classify the pastor's dwelling as "tax-exempt" just because it is owned by a church, while in many churches allow their ministers $90 and $100 monthly for house payments for a home, on which the parsonage must pay taxes.

Lancaster County Assessor Arthur Davis had recommended all parsonages be tax-exempt in his preliminary recommendations to the board. They have previously always been exempt.

Grossman said the board had made its decisions on the church applications he heard Feb. 28 but declined to release the decisions until after the applicants have been notified.

He said they had ruled one parsonage partially exempt on the basis that approximately 90% of the basement of the parsonage was used for church purposes.

The basement would be exempt while the remainder of the parsonage would be placed on the tax rolls, he said.

When asked for an estimate of the amount of revenue to be raised by placing the majority of the parsonages on the tax rolls, Grossman said he had no idea of a total.

Grossman said the board had made its decisions on the church applications he heard Feb. 28 but declined to release the decisions until after the hearing testimony and the recommendation of the county assessor, within ten days after the hearing.

Senate Approves Farm Bill

... WHEAT HELP INCLUDED: HOUSE ACTION UNCERTAIN

Washington (UPI)—The Senate passed Friday night a $1 billion administration-backed farm bill and cleared the way to open the long-awaited battle over the House-passed civil rights bill.

On a 53-35 roll call, the Senate approved a measure designed to provide about $1 billion for wheat and cotton farmers and for domestic cotton mills in this election year. Five Republicans joined 48 Democrats in supporting the measure while 21 Republicans and 14 Democrats opposed it.

The measure now goes to the House, which earlier approved only a similar cotton program aimed at permitting domestic cotton mills to buy American cotton at the same low U.S.-subsidized price now available for foreign buyers.

With the spring planting season rapidly approaching, surplus foods by providing stamps for the needy.

House Action Delayed.
There were some indications Friday that the House leadership will not clear the farm bill for action until after Easter.

In wading through a stack of amendments before the final vote, the Senate turned down one effort by Sen. John accept the Senate bill or to send it to a Senate-House conference. If the leadership gives the go-ahead, however, the rules committee could clear the way for a compromise effort.

In wading through a stack of amendments before the final vote, the Senate turned down one effort by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., to knock out the wheat program, but by an unexpected close 45-42 vote. An attempt by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, to force a growers referendum before the wheat program could go into effect was beaten more solidly, 56 to 32.

Managers of the measure, in a week of debate and voting, beat off all efforts to make major changes except one made Friday, a 46-43 vote to cut the cotton program from four years to two.

Civil Rights Next

Administration leaders pushed the farm measure to a vote this week so the Senate can turn on Monday to the 10-point civil rights bill which is expected to provoke a southern filibuster that may stall the Senate for weeks or months.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, successfully proposed changing the four years to two.

He said the subsidy was likely to be so costly that Congress should take a new look at the program in two years. Some wheat state senators also said they were unhappy because the program for their commodity was held to two years; they said there should be equal treatment.

A 66-19 vote turned back an earlier effort to provide for an eventual shift from acreage to bushels and bales in controls for cotton and wheat.

After the surprise rejection last year of the mandatory domestic wheat certificate controls program, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman estimated that incomes of wheat farmers could drop some $600 million this year because of the lower supports required of about $1.25 bushels.

Worth $150 Million

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who piloted the new wheat proposals through the Senate, estimated they would add about $450 million to farmer's income on this year's crop of the chief bread grain.

To share in this, farmers must agree to hold plantings within their part of the national allotment. They then would get a base support of $1.30 a bushel plus a certificate worth 70 cents on wheat going into domestic consumption and one for 25 cents on export grain.

Under this, the recent level of about $2 bushel would continue on domestic wheat with export wheat at $1.55.

Processors, millers, handlers and exporters would be required to pay cost of the certificates.

Farmers could ignore the allotments and plant all the wheat they wish without penalty if they want to pass up the proposed price supports for export subsidies. But they would take a risk on both local and world market levels for non-certified wheat, intended for use as livestock feed or export.

Opponents of the wheat program contended that it was an effort to retain government controls over farm production and denied that it was voluntary. They noted that the certificates would be compulsory for millers, exporters and handlers.

Some critics called the plan a "bread tax" on consumers and taxpayers.

Weird Flower Blooms At Ord

A 30-year-old bulb, the Sacred Lily of India, is now in bloom at Ord. The weird flower started blooming when five years old and has blossomed ever since. Looking at the strange specimen are the Rev. and Mrs. Richard E. Atherton of the Ord Methodist Church. Their daughter, Lynn, a sixth grade student, took the large bulb to school to watch its development. A call from the teacher, Mrs. Raymond Pocock, disclosed the flower had finally come out in the night with all its foul dead rat-like odor. The bulb was given a bath in an out-of-the-way storage spot while the janitor deodorized the building.

The latest surface map shows a strong low in northern Illinois and a front from the southwest moving across Oklahoma into extreme southeast Arizona. More important are the series of cold fronts in the central and southern plains with the low. Another cold front is expected to move into west New Mexico and the front moving a little in Oklahoma but moving east into the plains. Another cold front is in the low and the eastward front from extreme north Arkansas to Tennessee and northwestern Kentucky. A middle low pressure area will move into the Great Lakes and a high will be built into northwest Iowa and east Minnesota by Saturday evening but stay to the northwest along the Great Lakes. A cold front will move into the Great Lakes with much cold unstable air in the trough. Another cold front will move into the Great Lakes with sharp to partly cloudy over west Iowa and east Nebraska and scattered snow flurries. In extreme western Iowa the forecast is cold with increasing cloudiness. In the event, an unusual series of cold fronts will move into the north during the month with at least some light snows in southwest Iowa. The cold front will move into the area especially in West Iowa and all the northeast half of Nebraska with temperatures dropping below zero for the second time in the two state region. Occasional snows are expected through much of southern Nebraska and the low will be over with some snows moving mostly from west to east. Very little snow is indicated for the north portions.

Extended Forecasts

NEBRASKA—Temperatures for the next five days, Saturday through Wednesday, will average five to 10 degrees below normal in the east and eight to 12 degrees below normal in the west.

Issue Needs Facing

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There is difficulty in understanding the logic of the situation that faces the United States in Viet Nam. The prevailing opinion in Washington is that the war is going badly and the government in the south is near the point of crumbling. If this should happen, it would not be too difficult to understand as Viet Nam constitutes a most perplexing problem.

We find in this strategic Asiatic country another example of U.S. difficulty in dealing with tactics that are basically foreign to the principles and ways of democracy. The situation is one that might best be described as perplexing. There is in Viet Nam the same conflict in nature that existed with Korea. It can be remembered that Korea presented an unusual situation in that it was a war limited largely to defense. It was because of this that now retired Gen. Douglas MacArthur had his run-in with then President Harry S. Truman who would not permit an offensive against North Korea.

Similar To Korea

Why the war goes badly in Viet Nam must, in all reality, be credited at least partly to the fact that it cannot be waged as would be an ordinary war. Much the same thing is faced in connection with the border dispute between Red China and India. In this situation, Red China can move at its convenience against India but nothing can be done the other direction.

In Viet Nam, the communists from the north can move aggressively against the south but not vice versa. Somehow or other, the United States is going to have to find a way of meeting this kind of challenge. It is a challenge far too costly and dangerous to us to be permitted to continue forever.

If South Viet Nam attacks the north with the aid and assistance of the United States, there is the very good risk of igniting World War III. Yet, the communists can attack free nations apparently whenever they please and never run this risk. All they risk is the possibility of no gain, never a loss. This is one of the handicaps of a social and political order that does not believe in aggression but it is a handicap that will have to be overcome. It has seemed apparent in recent weeks that the administration in Washington is acutely aware of a deteriorating situation in Asia and the need for a more effective means of dealing with things than we have employed in the past.

Britain Ups Interest

Evidence of inflation, political expedience and a rising foreign trade deficit has caused the British Treasury to raise its bank rate from 4 to 5 per cent.

This is a directive to the Bank of England which in this particular situation corresponds in function to the Federal Reserve System of the U.S. It means that British commercial banks will pay the higher rate to discount their paper. The broad effect will be to raise interest rates throughout the United Kingdom.

On the principle that money seeks the best return, it is to be expected that the new British interest rate will attract American capital. The Federal Reserve discount rate is presently 3½ per cent. An increased outflow of American dollars can have a direct bearing on the decline in the U.S. gold reserve.

Granted that Great Britain is having its troubles, its decision to find a remedy in a higher interest rate does not constitute the most neighborly attitude, especially in the light of our recent tax cut with its intention to accelerate our economy. Such acceleration will make more money available for export. We may get into a position of trying to fill a bucket in which Great Britain has punched a hole.

Great Britain has not been as great an offender as France, nor as impudent as Spain. But in this instance it could have met its problem by stiffer tax levies and lower government spending. The fact that the Conservative party is facing elections and was, therefore, reluctant to practice austerity at this moment may have caused it to have stepped on our toes. But at any rate it is an example of the difficulty of maintaining harmonious unity within the western family of nations.

City's Legal Advice

Among Mayor Dean Petersen's criticisms this week of Consumers Public Power District was a reference to the legal service maintained by Consumers "in every county seat town of the state." It is a fact that public power agencies in this state have spent far too much money, millions more, on legal fees than should ever be the case.

Lincoln, however, can hardly afford to point at anyone else in this matter. During the 1963 session of the Legislature Attorney Clarence Davis was paid by Lincoln business interests to promote a bill requiring Consumers to turn over its distribution system to the city of Lincoln.

As Others See Us

Wooing The Farm Bloc

From The New York Times

The power of the farm bloc is waning, but the Administration and Congress continue to treat it with extraordinary solicitude.

A bill to provide extra income to wheat farmers is being rushed through despite Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman's decision against any new wheat legislation after growers had voted down his plan to control production. The same bill would also give a brand new subsidy to domestic textile producers, who justifiably complain that the present subsidy system for cotton growers and cotton exporters favors foreign competition. But three wrong subsidies don't make a right one — they only make matters worse.

These proposed handouts are getting priority over civil rights. According to the Administration, haste is necessary because spring sowing will soon begin. But it is difficult to escape the conclusion that Washington wants to be sure that the farmers are reaping a new harvest of subsidies well before Election Day rolls around.

What all this means is higher costs for the consumer. The new wheat proposal will increase prices for bread and flour; the new cotton subsidy will mean higher prices for textiles. As a result, there will be increased use of cotton substitutes, so that the cotton surplus will grow; and here will be new incentives to increase the wheat crop at a time when the wheat surplus was being reduced, largely because of foreign demand, to manageable proportions.

Instead of playing politics with the farm bloc at the expense of the consumer, the Administration and Congress could afford to take a fresh look at the agricultural problem. The solution does not lie in never and bigger subsidies, which will only keep too many people sharing too little income down on the farm. What is needed is special help for those who cannot make a living out of farming and a gradual dismantling of subsidies for the efficient and profitable farmers. There can be no end to farm surpluses as long as the Government is willing to provide subsidies every time an election is in sight.

LBJ Tightens Up The Purse Strings

expected the President to stop off at the LBJ ranch on his way back from Palm Springs the other day, but he didn't. They also expected him to fly to the LBJ ranch from Miami last weekend.

Explanation was the Johnson economy program. It costs about $10,000 to make a stop at the LBJ ranch. This is not the cost of airplane travel but rather the cost of lugging along bodyguards, signal men, various aides and communications equipment. It all goes with the President when he spends a weekend some distance away from the White House.

Johnson figures that if he is going to preach economy he had better practice it at home and he has been quite vigorous about it.

This is why he has turned down a recommendation to refurbish Camp David in the Catoctin mountains. The presidential retreat has become somewhat run down but Johnson has decided to postpone any major repairs.

A suggestion to LBJ for saving more money: every day the government burns $25 million of old and torn paper money. It could be deinked and either sold or used over again without danger.

At present the money is burned by the Treasury Department "destruction" committee, in charge of John Moran.

Our folding money is made of the best bond paper, 75 per cent from cotton, 25 per cent from linen rag, with blue and red nylon fiber to provide extra durability. It's printed from engraved plates by the intaglio process, a distinctive system developed by Italian engineers to make it as copy-proof as possible and difficult to counterfeit.

Under a law passed in 1880, worn out paper money is required to be burned.

Since then, however, deinking processes have become so efficient that the experts assert it would be possible to de-ink and reuse our paper money just as various industrial plants handle scrap paper.

When President Johnson pushed a button firing a blast of dynamite to construct the Cross-Florida Barge Canal, it was a belated tribute to the late John H. Perry, Florida newspaper publisher and to ex-senator, now congressman, Claude Pepper.

More than 25 years ago, Publisher Perry persuaded then Senator Pepper to introduce legislation calling for a deep water canal from Jacksonville on the east coast of Florida to Panama City on the west coast.

New Hampshire Shows GOP Problem

WASHINGTON—The accelerated public works program in New Hampshire, as the natives fondly refer to their Tuesday primary, is booming.

The hotel, transportation, food and political trades couldn't be happier about the tax cut, as all expect to move into higher brackets this year.

The Portsmouth Herald estimates that the controversial test of presidential sentiment is now a multimillion-dollar industry. A hotel operator thinks the cash total will be $3 million at least, a sweet shot in the arm for a state of about 600,000 population.

Sober chroniclers find themselves somewhat in the position of George Bernard Shaw when he was taking bows for an ovation following the opening of his play, "Candida." Suddenly came a shout from the gallery, "Your play is bloody awful." Shaw bowed. "I agree with you," he said, "but who are we against so many?"

A survey of certain checkpoints which normally keep their heads when all about them are spending money suggests, however, that the least New Hampshire will do this year is to document the confusion among the Republicans over whom they should nominate.

These sages see no prospect of a bandwagon for anyone and no clear-cut ideological decision which will point the way for party leaders elsewhere. They expect, rather, that the primary will sound the horn for a new and imperative hunger for fresh presidential possibilities.

The technical aspect of the balloting offers a severe test of the literacy of New Hampshire voters. All the draft campaigns hinge upon write-ins, some of which are astonishingly complicated.

The Republican primary began as a Goldwater-Rockefeller struggle. The senator-pilot from Arizona has since stepped up his kamikaze attacks on the Kennedy-Johnson administration, dive-bombing on every front, with an occasional swoop inside the Rockefeller lines. He is still expected to lead the New York governor, but few think he will get anywhere near the impressive plurality once predicted for him.

But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, establish, strengthen, and settle you.

By NORMAN MARSHALL
National Commander of Salvation Army in U.S.A., (Ret.)

Following the custom of my father, early in my study of God's Word I marked or underlined certain passages of Scripture that impressed me. In this way my eye would catch these verses again and again until they became indelibly written on my mind and I would find myself repeating them until the message in the Word gripped me.

Such was the experience with respect to this particular text, which has been called the "Fisherman's Benediction." Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed has translated the verse in this way: "And God, the giver of all mercy, who through your union with Christ has called you to His eternal glory, after you have suffered a little while, will Himself make you perfect, steadfast, and strong."

We can quite understand how this confession welled up in Peter's heart when he remembered his unfaithfulness, his denial of his Lord and Master, his turning back from discipleship just when Jesus needed him most. But Peter also remembered the pity and forgiveness on the face of Jesus when He turned and looked upon him, and he "went out and wept bitterly."

Following his repentance Peter's heart was comforted when he received the message of the women who had gone to the sepulcher and found it empty and were sent back to tell the disciples "and Peter" that Christ was risen and would meet them in Galilee.

What joy and comfort came to Peter in the assurance of his forgiveness and reinstatement as one of Jesus' disciples! No wonder Peter in his benediction, at the close of his first letter to these early Christians, referred to God as the "God of all grace," or as Goodspeed put it, "God, the giver of all mercy."

Included in this benediction was not only the mercy of God, but also the "call" of God to us through Christ to share with Him His eternal glory, and the promise of God to each of us as His gracious ministry whereby we shall be made whole and complete in Him and established and strengthened in our new life in Christ.

Since we all have "sinned and come short of His glory" and have "turned everyone to his own way" and have denied our Lord and Master just like Peter did, this Fisherman's Benediction constitutes for all of us both a comfort and a challenge, and this text shall ever remain one of my favorite verses from the World of God.

What was disturbing was the fact that agreement and compromise seemed to be so unpalatable that a fight over proxies could be allowed to drag on for two hours before the committee could take any action, at all. Now, that was an ugly chardade.

Worry and Trouble are cowards,

Afraid of the strong and the brave;

They come in the night to their victim,

Attempting to make him a slave.

They fatten on grieving and sighing,

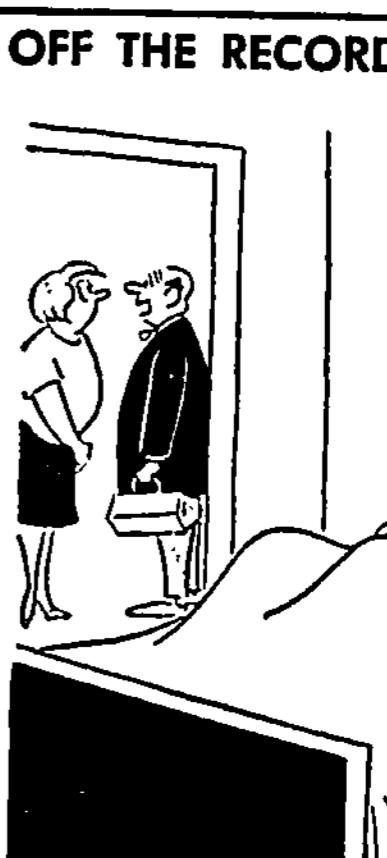

They glory in sight of your fears;

But they vanish when merriment cometh,

And fade when Good Nature appears.

Auschwitz Prisoner Identifies 10 SS Tormentors

By LOYAL GOULD

Frankfurt, Germany (AP) — An ex-Auschwitz concentration camp prisoner identified 10 of his former SS tormentors Friday in a dramatic courtroom confrontation that left some of the defendants spluttering with rage.

Told by the prosecution of Germany's largest war crimes trial to identify defendants he had mentioned in testimony, Hermann Langbein, walked slowly through the hushed courtroom, pointing to the right and left as he strolled through the ranks of the 22 former SS guards and Auschwitz functionaries on trial.

"Fancy seeing you again—and here, of all places," Langbein said sarcastically when he stopped in front of former SS Sgt. Oswald Kaduk.

"Trash," At Attention.

"You know me, that's true, but that's trash what you're saying about me here," Kaduk barked while he snapped his full 6 foot 3 inches to attention.

Langbein replied:

"Don't you wish it were."

He resumed his walk, stopping in front of former SS Lt. Col. Victor Capesius.

"And here's the good Dr. Capesius. How are you, Doctor?" Langbein asked.

"I never took part in selecting prisoners for the gas chambers as you testified," Capesius yelled by Langbein.

Langbein, a Viennese writer who said he was used at the camp to type death certificates, coolly replied:

"You certainly did, and you know it."

So it went as Langbein strolled past other defendants, identifying eight others as former Auschwitz guards who, as he said, "kept the murder factory that was Auschwitz functioning."

Those he identified included former SS Sgts. Wilhelm Boger, Franz Hofmann, Josef Klehr, Herbert Scherpe, Emil Hanti, Gerhard Neubert and former SS dentists Willi Schatz and Willi Frank. Most of them vigorously shook their heads to demonstrate their disagreement with Langbein's connecting them with Auschwitz atrocities.

Variety In Murder

All the defendants are accused of murder or of being accomplices to murder. The charges say they killed in a variety of ways—by torture, beatings, starvation, injections of carbolic acid solution, gassing, shooting, and by burning alive.

Before Langbein identified the defendants he knew, he testified that former Auschwitz Commandant Rudolf Hoess had given orders that all children inmates "should be burned to death on fires fed by bodies taken from the

$218 Million Saved By Watchdogs

Washington (AP) — The watchdog agency of Congress claimed Friday that it saved the American taxpayer more than $218 million last year by prying into the business of just about everybody in government.

The General Accounting Office, set up by Congress in 1921, did its boasting in an annual report. The agency took 159 pages to give a detailed listing of all the myriad cubbyholes of government it poked into during the year.

The report said many of the savings and improvements in government operations as a result of its efforts cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Those that can, it said, amounted to $218,380,000. In addition, the GAO said, $29,167,000 was actually collected through its efforts in fiscal year 1963.

Discreetly

The sprawling Defense Department gets a major share of the GAO's attention. One area of the government is conspicuously absent from the GAO's reports — the legislative branch. Being a creature of Congress, the GAO discreetly confines its sleuthing to the executive branch. Sometimes the executive agencies argue back.

Here are a few examples of claimed GAO savings and recommendations last year:

—Defense Medical Supply Center eliminated special overseas packing of surgical dressings destined for domestic use. Saving: $22,000.

—The Navy could save $130,000 if it bought milk in bulk lots for Guantanamo Naval base in Cuba, instead of in half-pint containers.

—The Air Force should get full use out of aircraft spark plugs and not just throw them away after initial use; also should use up a big stock of sparkplugs now on hand. Potential saving: $4.6 million.

Roads, Not Rails

—Armed forces should use highway mileage instead of old style rail mileage to compute travel costs of personnel. Estimated saving: $6 million a year.

—Bonneville Power Administration in the Northwest was not collecting penalties for late payment of electric bills. Actual recovery: $6,425.

—The Savannah District of the Army Corps of Engineers raised its dredging rate for commercial interests from $75 an hour to $100 an hour. The GAO said that would cover all costs.

—The Forest Service was using commercial phone lines instead of government leased lines for 75% of its long distance calls. Annual saving: $11,150.

Current Charge

—The Post Office Department was not charging for electricity and other utilities used by vending machines operated in government buildings by Post Office employee welfare groups. Estimated reimbursement: $200,000 a year.

As can be seen, nothing is too small for the GAO to interest itself in. But it occasionally comes across something big.

It was a GAO report which originally questioned the stockpiling of nickel in connection with a mine owned by the M. A. Hanna interests, whose former president was George M. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury under President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The result was a full-scale congressional investigation which produced an angry confrontation between the former Cabinet member and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Gall Bladder Removed; MacArthur Doing Well

Washington (UPI) — General of the Army Douglas MacArthur underwent three hours of major abdominal surgery Friday. His gall bladder was removed, and doctors said the 84-year-old hero of three wars emerged in "satisfactory" condition.

No evidence of cancer was found. He was taken from surgery to a recovery room for 24 to 72 hours of intensive care. Doctors said that unless complications develop, MacArthur may be able to leave the hospital within four weeks.

Brig. Gen. Henrys Murphey, commandant of Walter Reed Army Hospital, said MacArthur's heartbeat after the long operation was "regular and smooth."

"His spirits were good," Murphey said. "I would say he was showing a good deal of strength."

MacArthur, whose grand manner and military dash helped make him one of the most widely known figures of this century, weighed only 140 pounds when he was flown to

"I Shall Keep This Lent"

"LENT" means springtime. It is an old Latin word which means a forty day fasting period next before Easter. It begins with Ash Wednesday and continues till Easter; exclusive of Sundays.

It is a time for the conditioning of our soil . . . a time for our Souls to become penitent. It simply means that it is spading up time, the season for planting seeds and for setting blooming trees.

In the realm of the spirit it is a call to get ready for the season of beauty and goodness.

Who amongst us is satisfied with what he is or what he has been? Then let us qualify for the Lenten Season. Let us clear away the rubbish of last year's crop, cut under the old stalks. May we learn from our Lord to give ourselves to good conditioning during Lent. The miracle of Lent is genuine repentance which leads to Newness of Life. A Saintly Keeper of Lent said it well when he spoke the words, "I shall keep this Lent, and hope to refresh my Soul." Amen

4 Youths Die In Iowa Farm Blaze

Grandfather, Others Fail
Rescue Tries

Pomeroy, Iowa (UPI)—Funeral services are planned Monday afternoon for four school children who died Friday despite their grandfather's efforts to rescue them from the second floor of a burning farm home.

The dead, children of Mrs. Louis Dornath, 35, and her divorced husband, Gilbert Schoon, 43, are Carole, 17; Merle, 15; Charlene, 14; and Beverly, 12.

"I don't think the children ever woke up," said Dornath, 27, husband of the children's mother. Firemen recovered the youngsters' bodies from the basement of their charred house, directly beneath the bedrooms where they slept.

The children lived with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carlson, on a farm half a mile south of this Calhoun County town. Their father lives in Pomeroy.

The children attended Pomeroy community school, where Supt. A. E. Hewlett reported students in a state of shock Friday.

Firemen did not immediately determine the cause of the blaze. Carlson, 65, said he had checked the thermostat about 3:30 a.m. and everything seemed to be in order.

Dornath said he and his wife woke up to the blaring of a horn which Carlson apparently blew to rouse them. They rushed to the Carlson home, where they could see flames, and saw the grandfather trying to get a ladder to the second floor window. "He yelled for the children.

SEEKING BODIES . . . firemen use fan to blow smoke away.

Flames came pouring out when he smashed a window, helpfully drove to Pomeroy for help.

He cut his arm and burned his hand before he was forced back," Dornath said.

Mrs. Dornath tried to climb the ladder, too, Dornath said, but was pulled back and found part of her body. Carlson suffered minor cuts and burns.

The Dornaths were treated for minor burns and released.

The other children, 13-year-old twins, were living with other families.

Total Tax Collections In State's Cities Up 11%

Total state and local taxes collected in Nebraska's 25 largest cities rose 11.1 per cent this year, compared with an increase of 6.94 per cent a year earlier, the Nebraska Tax Research Council, Inc., said.

Assessed valuations of the cities, the council said, rose 4.79 per cent — which totaled more than $50 million. Thus, the council noted, new properties and higher values probably account for nearly one-half of the increase in taxes, with older established properties carrying the remainder.

The council is an independent tax study and research organization.

It said the dollar increase was $9,342,000, compared to last year's $5,422,000.

The council said the principal reason for the rise was the "tax take" of the state which rose 23.2 per cent.

The state was followed by school taxes which went up 12.2 per cent, county taxes, up 8.1 per cent, city taxes, up 6.56 per cent, and mental patient levies, up 3.17 per cent.

"In this decade," the council said, "state and local taxes have risen 35.8 per cent."

Percentagewise, Blair led the cities studied with a 17 per cent increase in total state and local taxes. Next was York with 15.9 and Omaha with a 15.2 per cent rise.

Fairbury registered the smallest increase with 2.9 per cent.

Kearney and Falls City, however, came up with modest declines of 1.1 and 2.2 per cent respectively. Lincoln was up 6.1 per cent.

For the third consecutive year, Plattsmouth had the highest levy of 106.075.

Fremont, also a three-year winner, had the lowest levy of the 25 cities with 64.155.

In explaining its figures, the council said: "If you live in the average city, the state will take 11.5 cents of each tax dollar you pay, the city will take 22.3 cents, the county 8.1, mental patient taxes 2.9 and schools 55.2."

"As usual, there are some substantial variations going to make up the averages. In Fairbury the state gets only 10.08 cents of each dollar while in Fremont the state takes 15.27 cents. In Bellevue, the city's share of each tax dollar is 30.7 cents, while across the state in Alliance the state takes only 11.96 cents."

The council said the range in county taxes is also substantial. In Blair, 20.8 cents goes to the county, while in Sidney only 4.47 cents is required.

Mental patient taxes range from a high of 5.44 per cent in Falls City to a low of 1.05 per cent in Sidney. In Alliance, school requirements take 68.75 cents of each tax dollar while in Norfolk only 44.2 cents is needed.

Judge Favors Corporation In Dispute On Land

Falls City (UPI) — District Judge William Colwell found generally for the Osgood-Lewis-Perkins corporation in a dispute over a large tract of acreage land near the Nebraska-Kansas line in the southeast part of Richardson County.

The family corporation was the plaintiff in the case and the defendants were Mrs. Alma M. Green and her son, Harry Green, of White Cloud, Kan.

The plaintiffs contended the land had accrued to corporation land, which lies in Nebraska, and the Greens claimed the land had accrued to their land, which is in Kansas. The value of the Missouri River bottom land has been estimated upward from $60,000.

In the wake of the decision, the Osgood-Lewis-Perkins corporation filed a new suit to recover the value of 15,000 or more bushels of corn allegedly grown on the land by Mrs. Green and her son. The approximate value of the corn was placed at $20,000.

It is alleged in the new suit that Mrs. Green and her son had produced the corn on the disputed land in 1962 without the consent of the plaintiffs.

Anderson Is Washington County Attorney—High Court

Saturday, March 7, 1964 The Lincoln Star 11

Roy L. Anderson is indeed of the elector, be given with the county attorney of Washington County, the Nebraska Supreme Court ruled Friday. The decision affirmed the Washington County District Court which had sustained the validity of his election in November 1962. The Washington County Board of Canvassers had certified the election of Anderson, a Republican.

Chester Nell Sutton, his Democratic opponent, contested the validity of the election on the grounds that the votes cast at the Crowell Memorial home in Blair were invalid because it was not a properly established polling place for the precinct. Anderson won the election by 26 votes but Sutton would have emerged victorious by a narrow margin had the votes been thrown out.

The Supreme Court dismissed the suit without ruling on its merits because of a technical defect in filing the action by Sutton.

The applicable statute requires that notice of contest mission and directed the commission to give the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. permission to close its station at the Ziegler Coal and Feed Yards Co., and other protestants had objected to the railroad's application.

"The action of the commission is reviewable by the state's authority to determine its status and discontinue its agency in view of evidence unreasonable, arbitrary and unjust, and its action must be set aside," the court said.

—Affirmed the York County District Court in holding three contracts written under a "Dairy Maid" trademark agreeable and enforceable.

The breach of contract action was filed by Richard L. and Lettie M. McLeod against H. R. Crawford and Violet M. Crawford. The Crawfords contend that the terms they signed were illegal "because they were agreements against public policy in extending the period of time beyond the expiration date of the patent."

The court disagreed.

"From what has been said," it said, "these contracts are valid and enforceable agreements. They are not tainted with illegality. The defendants breached their obligation by the extent they used the trademark and the machines in operating 'Dairy Queen' stores. To that extent they are guilty of fraud and pay for the benefits they received and the obligations they caused themselves under the contracts."

—Affirmed the dismissal by the Buffalo

County District Court of an action by the estate of Harold W. Flory to recover damages for his death in an auto accident. It was filed by Diamond Flory, administrator of the estate, against the driver of a car which was in collision with the Flory vehicle.

Huts and Flory were driving alone and there were no witnesses to the accident. The Florys live 10 miles northwest of Shelton in October 1961.

—Ordered a new Hall County District Court trial in a motor vehicle accident suit. C. E. Colos had appealed as well as $2,375 in damages he received in a suit against Matthew J. and Louis Beneo, driver and passenger in his car.

The Supreme Court held that "because of the submission of the issue of contributory negligence to the jury herein, the court should not reverse the trial court's decision."

The Supreme Court held that "because of the submission of the issue of contributory negligence to the jury herein, the court should not reverse the trial. The issue of liability having been determined, the case should be tried only as to the damages involved."

—Overturned a Douglas County District Court jury award of a minor vehicle negligencemotorist and mother of the victim in the accident.

Huts and Flory were driving alone and there were no witnesses to the accident.

The Florys live 10 miles northwest of Shelton in October 1961.

—Ordered a mother to give up custody of her child to a couple which the couple had been trying to have since an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court said

The district court granted Betty Jo Hall a divorce from Herbert Richard Hall but ruled that neither of them was fit parents and ordered the child turned over to her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Baldwin. It ordered the couple to pay the child $100 a month in the Baldwin's support.

The mother declined to turn her nine-year-old daughter over to the Baldwins until her divorce appeal was pending. Hall sought a divorce in 1962. The court held it did not have jurisdiction while the appeal was pending but the Supreme Court said it did.

The court said it was illogical to say the least, for the trial court to find both the parents unfit to have the child to leave it with an unfit parent solely because an appeal is taken to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court said

"We help you to make a speedier recovery!

Opening lead — six of spades

Certain bids are treated as 100% forcing, but yet there is nothing to prevent a player from asserting his independence of mind by passing a forcing bid—if he is willing to brave partner's wrath when it turns out he is wrong.

For an example of the temptations that sometimes beset a player, examine the South hand in this deal taken from a team match. North opened with two clubs, an artificial bid forcing to game, though it did not necessarily show a club suit.

South made the negative response of two diamonds, which had nothing to do with diamonds as such, but merely denied positive values. North now bid three diamonds, showing a genuine suit.

At this point, South passed, even though the diamond raise was 100% forcing. In the actual case South was right, since no game could be made against proper defense, but yet South ran a serious risk because North's hand might have been stronger, in which case a game or even a slam might have been missed. South made ten tricks.

The bidding at the second table was:

North	East	South	West
2 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 ♠
5 ♠	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
		Dble

Here the South player regarded the obligation to bid as absolute, and he therefore raised to four diamonds.

Eventually he became declarer at five diamonds doubled, a contract he should have made when West selected the three of clubs as his opening lead.

Declarer ducked in dummy, winning the opening lead with the nine, and then cashed the A-K of diamonds. If he had now played clubs, he would have been able to dispose of all his heart losers and would have made the contract as a result of the favorable opening lead.

But, for reasons unknown, he led the king of spades at trick four. East took the ace, winning the opening lead hearts, and South now had to go down one.

Fun Is A Popular Hobby In Suburbia

EASTBOROUGH

It has been suggested that everyone, child and adult should have a hobby. This, of course, if one has the time.

But can't you just see the look of amazement on the faces of your neighbors, not to mention your husband, as you sit in the backyard with paints and easel while everyone else is washing, ironing and running herd on the children? And imagine the reaction when you canvas the neighborhood looking for rare stamps, coins or butterflies.

We admit that having a hobby has its advantages but it seems that there are some things more important in the lives of suburban residents this week—such as visitors, guests and travels.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Degenhardt and their children, Richard, Dannie, Joan, Alice, David and Carol were Mrs. Degenhardt's sister Mrs. Bill Fuller and her daughters, Beverly and Betty; and her father, Carl Richards of Miltonvale, Kan.

The guests arrived a week ago yesterday to accompany Mrs. Richards back to Miltonvale where she has been visiting with her son-in-law and daughter and family.

Eastborough residents who will be traveling to Omaha this morning are Mr. and Mrs. Keith Erlewine and their two sons, Randy and Chris.

The Erlewine family will be attending "How the West Was Won," and will be returning to Lincoln in the afternoon.

And we have news this morning of West Coast travelers who have returned home and they are Mrs. Roger Keeney and her daughter, Lisa.

Mrs. Keeney and her daughter departed Lincoln on Sunday Feb. 16, for Los Angeles, Calif., and a visit with Capt. Keeney's mother, Mrs. Freda Kenney.

We might add, that while Mrs. Keeney and Lisa were enjoying the beach and the sunny weather, Capt. Keeney was on reflex duty.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Mr. and Mrs. Don Leising will entertain at three tables of contract bridge this evening. Their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sandin, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Stapleton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Yeutter.

Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Wenzl entertained family members at a buffet dinner in honor of the occasion. Those present included

Susan's seven week-old sister, Dawn; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wenzl of Beatrice; Jim Wenzl of Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Miss Helen Lessman and Mrs. Jacke Dye of Plattsburgh; and from Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. John Schreiner, Mr. and Mrs. Laroy Wenzl and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Irons and coming Tuesday afternoon will be Mrs. D. E. Brogden. Seated at the two tables will be Mrs. William Smiley, Mrs. Robert Cole, Mrs. Robert Larson, Mrs. Ray Manning, Mrs. Jack Bower, Mrs. James Malton and Mrs. Thomas Evans.

A special guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Evans this weekend is their daughter, Kathy who is a student nurse at University Hospital in Omaha.

On Sunday, the Evans family will be entertaining Mrs. Evans' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kuchera of Fremont and her nephew, Richard Brudeig. It will be a birthday celebration in honor of Mrs. Kuchera and Richard.

Talk

During the past few days we have done considerable talking about the current weekend and its dinner dances here and there. This morning we took a look at next week's calendar and found some things of interest.

On the calendar for Wednesday, for instance, is the luncheon for which Mrs. Robert Ritenour will be hostess at her home when she compliments Mrs. James Carrier of El Paso, Tex., who is the house guest of her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Carrier.

Moving on to Saturday, March 14, we find that Miss Anne Aitken, whose marriage to David Myers will take place on March 28, is to again be in the role of honoree. Miss Aitken will be paid prenuptial courtesy by Mrs. Woodrow Magee and her daughter, Miss Ann Magee, who are to be brunch hostesses at their home.

Following the brunch the soon-to-be bride will be presented with a paper shower.

A look into the future shows us that on Friday, March 20, Miss Susan Wertz, who also has chosen March 28 as the date of her marriage to Donald Smith, will be complimented by Mrs. Arthur Boyer and Mrs. Everett Freeman when they entertain at an informal afternoon party and a miscellaneous shower.

A moment ago we mentioned the current weekend and the dinner dances—all dancing club parties. We hear that there are to be more dancing club parties next weekend — The Mad Hatters will dine and dance at Hotel Lincoln on Saturday evening — and on the same night the Merrimix Club will be tripping the light fantastic at Hotel Cornhusker.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Gray are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Nancy Jean, to Gay M. Grosshans, son of Mrs. Priscilla Elche Grosshans, and of Max H. Grosshans of Collinsville, Okla., at a service solemnized on Friday, March 6.

Mr. Grosshans and his bride will make their home in Lincoln, at 80th and Old Cheney Rd.

Dear Abby

Re: The White Wedding Gown

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You have always insisted that the white wedding gown and veil are symbols of chastity and virginity, and should be worn only by brides who have earned them. Now you quote from St. Thomas Aquinas, and seem to have wavered from your original stand. I certainly believe in the forgiveness of sins; that even the sin of unchastity can be, and is, forgiven by the Lord if the sinner is truly repentant. But this forgiveness does not remove the consequences of the sin. The unchaste woman may be forgiven by the Lord, but she still loses her right to the symbols of virginity. I urge you to remain firm in your original position. Our young people must learn that there are certain penalties for unchastity and rewards for purity.

A CONCERNED PASTOR

DEAR PASTOR: I remain firm in my stand, and waver not the slightest. I printed the Catholic point of view, married) but he never lasted over two months with any of us. He left every place mad! Just before Christmas he wrote each of us telling us not to buy him anything because he wasn't buying us anything — not even the grandchildren. My oldest sister was so ashamed she bought her children gifts and put "Love from Grandpa" on the cards. Now he has sent us each another letter saying that when he dies he doesn't want to "bother" any of his children with the burial — that he has everything fixed up with the Veterans' Burial Association. Should we ignore him or try to make the peace?

SPEAKING FOR THE FIVE OF US

DEAR SPEAKING: It is sometimes difficult to tell whether a person is sick, or just "acting ugly." Someone in your family should keep in touch with him because he appears to need help. Try to keep the peace even if you must go 95 per cent of the way. You won't regret it.

lines. These diagonal lines are the shoulder seams. For pockets, make a 9-inch square.

To Make:

1. Cut back piece and a sleeve from one towel. Fold the second towel (wrong sides together, if towel is not the same on both sides) and cut two front pieces. Also cut one sleeve and two pockets from the second towel. You'll have enough toweling left for a belt measuring 3 inches wide and the length of the towel.

2. Stitch the front and the back together at shoulder seams. Stitch the sleeves to the robe with the shoulder seams and the tops of the sleeves matching. Stitch the side seams of the robe and the underarm seams to the sleeves in one operation.

3. Finish the seams with a narrow zigzag stitch, or by turning under raw edges $\frac{1}{4}$ inch and edge stitching them. You can also finish the seam by simply stitching the raw edges of the seam allowances together.

4. Make a narrow hem on bottom and at sleeve edges. Then, turn up 2 inches and stitch. Use a 2-inch wide strip of cotton fabric, and face the front opening and the back neckline.

5. Turn under all raw edges of pockets $\frac{1}{2}$ inch and top-stitch pockets to robe. For belt, turn raw edges under $\frac{1}{2}$ inch and edge-stitch.

O'Hara Runs 3:56.4 Mile

... NU 4TH IN MILE RELAY

Chicago (I) — Tom O'Hara smashed his own indoor mile record Friday night with a time of 3:56.4 in the annual Chicago Daily News Relays before a screaming hometown throng of 18,307 in Chicago Stadium.

The frail-looking 130-pound Loyola of Chicago senior knocked two-tenths of a second off his previous indoor mark set in the New York AC Games last month at Madison Square Gardens.

He was paced through a sizzling 1:58.8 first half over the 11-lap oval board track by Jim Irons of the Toronto Olympic Club.

O'Hara, tugging at his togs, wiggling his head and flailing his arms, swung through the first quarter in 58.1. Then, with Irons dropping back after a half mile, O'Hara began opening up.

He recorded one of the most blistering three-quarters on record—a 2:59.8—before heading for home with a final 440 in 56.6.

The red-haired Irish lad dented the 1,500-meter mark in 3:41.6 for another indoor record. Last week in the Knights of Columbus Meet in New York he set a 1,500-mark of 3:43.6 en route to a 3:58.5 mile.

Nebraska's mile relay team of Dick Strand, Tucker Lillies, Gil Gebo, and Dave Crook won the University division of that event with a 3:18.1 clocking.

The Husker quartet finished ahead of New Mexico, Southern Illinois and Oklahoma State in that order.

Missouri won the University division wo-mile relay with Larry Ray, Charles Conrad, Bill Rawson and Robin Lingle turning in a 7:31.3. Kansas finished third.

Federation Meet Changed To One Day At NU Track

The second annual Nebraska Track and Field Federation Indoor Track Meet, originally scheduled to be Mar. 20-21 at the Nebraska track, has been changed to a one-day affair, Mar. 21.

Both the high school divisions and college divisions will be run that day. Field events will start at 1 p.m. with running events getting under way at 1:30.

The meet has been sanctioned by the U.S. Track and Field Federation, the Nebraska School Activities Association, the National High School Activities Association and the Nebraska Track and Field Federation.

Minneapolis Ties Knights At 2-2

Omaha (I) — With the Central Professional Hockey League title already cinched, the Omaha Knights stood off a powerful challenge by second place Minneapolis Friday night but had to settle for a 2-2 tie.

Omaha's new goalie Jean Guy Morissette had a shutout until Pete Pangabko counted at 10:42 of the final period. Pangabko scored Minneapolis' second goal at 15:45. Omaha wingers Claude La Rose and Norm Dennis scored in the second period.

Minneapolis also put a new player, winger Bill Cooper, in the lineup, but he failed to get into the scoring column.

Norfolk had tied at 68-68 on a pair of field goals by Bob Noyes in the last 40 seconds. Fremont then dumped Columbus 55-53. The Tigers used a big fourth period to win, outscoring Columbus 22-15 in the quarter. Two free throws by Jeff Draelin in the last 30 seconds clinched the Fremont win.

Fremont lost twice to both Columbus and Norfolk in the regular season.

Four Champs Crowned In Girl's Spiker Meet

Adams — Virginia spiked Alvo-Eagle Friday in the finals of the Class A Midweek Girls Volleyball Tournament here. The Virginians needed only two sets for the victory winning 14-6 and 10-6.

Lewiston topped Elmwood in the Class B finals, 10-5 and 9-5, while Holmesville needed three matches to dispense with Elk Creek in Class C winning the last two, 10-5 and 10-8, after dropping the first, 3-2. In Class D, Odell bombed Palmyra, 10-4 and 12-4. Thirty schools were entered in the meet.

—JONES ON 2ND TEAM—

'Cats Murrell Sole Shoo-In On AP's Big 8 Cage Squad

Kansas City (I) — Kansas State's Willie Murrell, the man of many shots, is the only unanimous choice on the 1964 all-Big Eight basketball team announced Friday by the Associated Press.

Murrell is the league's top scorer with a 21.8 average and No. 2 rebounder with 11.5 a game. Colorado's Jim Davis, the Big Eight's rebounding champion two straight years, was close to unanimous.

Missouri's Ray Carey, and George Unseld of Kansas, a both 6-foot-7 scoring-rebounding standouts, ranked next in the balloting.

In a tight race for the fifth first team berth, Bob Price of Missouri was just a shade ahead of Larry Hawk and Jim King of Oklahoma State and Roger Sutner of Kansas State, in that order. Others on the second team were Sammy Robinson of K-State and Charlie Jones, Nebraska.

Finding Recruits Hard For Thant

United Nations, N. Y. (UPI) — Secretary-General U Thant Friday appointed an Indian general to command a U.N. peace force for Cyprus. But as violence persisted on that strife torn island Thant ran into difficulty in recruiting troops for the force.

Greek and Turkish Cypriots battled for the third straight day in villages near the north coast harbor of Kyrenia. Casualties included two Turkish Cypriots killed and one injured and four Greek Cypriots injured.

Thant named Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani, 53, commander of the peace force. Gyani now is in Cyprus as Thant's personal representative.

LBJ Hits Criticism By Nikita

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson agreed Friday with Soviet Premier Khrushchev that outsiders "should strive not to inflame passions" over Cyprus but rejected the Russian's criticism of the U.S. role in that crisis.

In a brief letter, Johnson replied to Khrushchev's Feb. 7 message in which the Soviet premier denounced the then-pending U.S.-British proposal to send a NATO peacekeeping force to Cyprus to halt lethal violence between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

This plan since has been shelved in favor of U.N. handling of the situation.

The Johnson letter, dated March 4 and released Friday, told Khrushchev, "Whatever may have been the motivations of the Soviet government, your message was based upon a seriously mistaken appreciation both of the situation in Cyprus, and of the aims of the United States" in the matter.

Johnson continued:

"The United States has been cooperating with the governments concerned, including the government of the Republic of Cyprus, for one purpose alone, that of assisting the Cypriots to restore a peaceful situation in Cyprus."

Johnson concluded his letter, which ran fewer than 200 words, this way:

"I will, however, agree fully . . . with one thought that you expressed . . . it is certainly true that avoiding the aggravation of the situation in the eastern Mediterranean is in the general interest of us all. We should all strive not to inflame passions from without. I can assure you that this is the firm intention of my government, and I sincerely hope . . . that it is also that of your government."

Wooden Leg Flames Fatal To Its Wearer

Los Angeles (UPI) — Alfred Layne, 56, died Friday as the result of a fire that started in his wooden leg and damaged his apartment, police said.

Officers J. M. Velasco said Layne's leg, which had a compartment in it, caught fire in some unknown way. The fire burned down the leg into his shoe which flamed up, setting fire to his clothing.

The burning clothing in turn set fire to the furnishings in the room and the house was next.

Five city fire companies fought the flames but the house was almost a total loss.

Layne suffered first and second-degree burns over 95% of his body.

New Borneo Skirmish Tightens Crisis

Kuching, Malaysia (UPI) —

Indonesian guerrillas and Malaysian security forces fought on Borneo Friday in a skirmish that pointed toward hardening, if not expansion, of a Southeast Asian crisis cluding solution at the conference table.

A military spokesman said security forces killed four uniformed intruders, including one wearing the insignia of an Indonesian army sergeant, in a clash in the northeastern area of the Malaysian state of Sarawak. Another raider, slightly wounded, surrendered.

It was apparent that Britain would be expected to make up the bulk of the force. In this connection Thant said Gyani had indicated he wants, as his deputy commander Maj. Gen. R. N. P. Carver, commander of the 7,000-man British force now trying to enforce the cease-fire between Turkish and Greek Cypriots. British troops went to the island at the request of the Cyprus government after communal violence flared late in December.

Malaysia has accused Indonesia of a score of previous violations of the Jan. 26 cease-fire arranged by U.S. Atty.

Sinatra Kidnap Case To Jury

DELIBERATIONS TO RESUME SATURDAY MORNING

Los Angeles (P)—The Frank Sinatra Jr. kidnaping case went to the jury Friday evening after a U.S. judge commented that no direct evidence linked young Sinatra with plotting his abduction.

The defense contended young Sinatra cooperated in a publicity hoax. The government countered that the kidnaping was "a vicious crime pulled by rank amateurs moved by greed."

Barry Keenan, 23, described by the other two defendants and the government as mastermind of the alleged plot, did not testify in his own defense. The other defendants are Joseph Amsler, 23, and John Irwin, 42, who did. All three are charged with the Dec. 8 kidnaping of the 20-year-old son of the famed star.

Returning from dinner, the jury elected to begin deliberations at once. But 53 minutes later, they retired to an unnamed hotel for the night, and will resume deliberations at 11 a.m. CST Saturday.

Judge William G. East, in a 105-minute instruction to the jurors, said:

"If, as the defendants contend, you believe the kidnaping was staged for publicity or advertising purposes with the pre-arrangement of Frank Sinatra Jr. of persons in his behalf, then you must acquit on the kidnaping and conspiracy charges."

"But I must comment there is no direct evidence in this case by Frank Sinatra Jr. or persons in his behalf that pre-arrangements were made for his abduction."

The defense, in closing statements, made much of allegations that young Sinatra "consented" to his own kidnaping.

The defendants are charged with kidnaping young Sinatra from a Lake Tahoe, Nev., motel and releasing him unharmed three days later after his father paid $240,000 ransom.

Summary

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas R. Sheridan, summarizing the government's case, told the jury of nine men and 3 women:

"These men were not professional hoodlums. They didn't know what to do with the money or how to handle themselves when they got where they were going."

"They just wanted big money now. Barry Keenan's own letter, found in a safe deposit box, told us that."

In a dramatic windup to his initial summation, Sheridan played FBI tape recordings of telephone calls made by one of the alleged abductors.

The elder Sinatra's voice had an urgent sound when he first spoke to his son, saying:

"Frankie, how are you, son? Are you warm enough?" He asked the caller. "What do you want?" The reply: "Naturally, money."

For The Defense

The first defense summation came from Charles E. Crouch Jr., attorney for Keenan.

"The innocence of Mr. Keenan comes through the lips of the prosecution witnesses themselves," Crouch said.

"We have maintained that

Frank Sinatra Jr. consented to this affair, hence no crime was committed."

Ravine Hurtle Fatal

Iabque, Columbia (P) — A bus hurtled off the highway into a deep ravine 27 miles west of here, killing 10 of those aboard.

Candidates or those frequently mentioned as possibilities for the presidential nomination almost invariably say they are not interested in the vice presidential nomination and would not accept it.

Nixon predicted the big news in the New Hampshire primaries Tuesday might be on the Democratic side for Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy or the vice presidential nomination.

This amount was backed by testimony of a Lincoln contracting firm and architects.

Major opposition to the proposal came from W. D. Ray, former Third Recon president and the building's contractor, who contended the wall could be repaired at less cost and replacement was unnecessary.

Third Recon, owner of the Crossroads and the Patio

Bank drive-in facility, is a debtor corporation undergoing reorganization proceedings in Federal Court. Mortgage and debt claims against the corporation total some $1.9 million.

But Nixon said there were Reciprocity and proration permit fees collected last month totaled $8,290, compared with $11,000 in February, 1963.

Total fees collected in February this year equaled 79.9% of the amount collected for that month in 1963, Eiting said, adding that the 1964 figure does not include $1,700 turned in February 29.

The new system went into effect January 1, but Eiting said collections made during the first month while the program was getting into operation represented only a "token" amount and equaled about half the revenue obtained in February.

He noted that 60% of the gas stations did not even have signs posted designating them as collection stations until February 12.

"We feel the truck stops and oil industry are to be complimented for joining hands with the state on this project," Eiting said. "and the transportation industry is to be congratulated for its voluntary compliance with the new program."

Enforcement Minimum'

Since the new signs were not all posted until nearly mid-February, Eiting said enforcement of the new law has been on a "minimum" basis.

The "immunity" is gone now, however, with the proper posting of signs at the designated stations. Eiting said the department also has obtained a "breakdown of the collection patterns which provides a perfect pattern for selective enforcement."

He also stated that indications are the operating cost of the new program will be lower than the $160,000 biennial budget the department had estimated.

Nebraska's new program is "being watched nationally" as a method which may be adopted by other states. Eiting said, explaining that motor vehicle administrators generally have the philosophy that ports of entry are "trade barriers."

Nixon Willing To Take Second Spot On Ticket

New York (P)—Richard M. Nixon said Friday he is willing to accept the Republican vice presidential nomination again this year.

Nixon, often mentioned as a possibility for the top spot on the ticket, said on the NBC-TV "Today" program it is time to stop downgrading the vice presidency.

He emphasized he is not a candidate for either the presidential or vice presidential nomination but said he would do whatever his party asked.

Court Continues Hearing On Crossroads Hotel Wall

A U.S. District Court hearing Friday on requested authorization to finance replacement of the Crossroads Motor Hotel's south wall through $65,000 worth of indebtedness certificates was continued until Monday.

Judge Robert Van Pelt continued the hearing for additional technical information.

Clarence Davis, trustee for Third Recon Corp., advised the court on the estimated cost of replacing the defective tile screening with a metal solar screen on the 10th and O street hotel.

This amount was backed by testimony of a Lincoln contracting firm and architects.

Baker Says He Might Run For Public Office

Washington (P)—Bobby Baker, who has been a remarkably reticent man under Senate investigation, said Friday he is having "a very interesting life" and may run for public office some day.

The 35-year-old former Senate page boy from Pickens, S.C., whose financial activities are still under study by the Senate Rules Committee, did not rule out the possibility of becoming governor of South Carolina.

"I have no idea what I am going to do," he said when asked if he still dreams of the governor's mansion.

But he added that "politics is what I know best" and said there is "a distinct possibility" that he may seek public office at some future time.

Mail '40 To 1'

Baker, who was reached by telephone in his $125,000 home in the exclusive Spring Valley section of northwest Washington, told a reporter his mail has been running "40 to 1 in favor of my position" since he invoked the Fifth Amendment when subpoenaed before the Senate committee.

This week Baker's former fellow townsperson named him one of 12 Pickens County delegates to the South Carolina Democratic convention.

Baker, recalling that he has been a delegate to every state convention since he was 21, said he was honored and flattered by this expression of faith.

The convention is to be held on March 25, but Baker said he is going to talk with the Pickens County chairman and other local leaders "to see what they think about it" before deciding whether to go.

Boosted LBJ

At the 1960 Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles, Baker was an active supporter of Lyndon B. Johnson when he was battling with the late President John F. Kennedy for top place on the national ticket.

This year, however, Baker said he will not be able to do anything about the vote for President Johnson.

"With all the problems I've had," he said, "he wouldn't be of any help to the President in a re-election campaign."

"I'm realistic, not a fool," he said.

"People that know you and respect you and like you, even if you had done something wrong, will still be for you," he said. "The people who don't know you, all they know is what they read."

For the time being, Baker said, "I'm going to practice law and try to look after the enterprises I have."

Rulings On Tax Exempt Status Expected Monday

State Tax Commissioner Forrest Johnson said Friday he hopes to have ruling ready by Monday on hearings he has conducted thus far on approximately 25 pieces of property submitted for tax-exempt status.

Hearings have been conducted by Johnson in Arthur, Hooker, McPherson, Logan, Franklin, Wayne and Boyd counties under a law passed by the 1963 Legislature requiring review of tax-exempt properties.

Johnson said he expects to work "throughout the weekend" to get the rulings prepared.

The tax commissioner had postponed the ruling until after he received a ruling from the attorney general on the tax-exempt status of church parsonages.

Bank Robber Bond Set At $25,000; Held Here For Georgia Authorities

William Dean Cochran, 26-year-old admitted bank robber was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner C. M. Pierson late Friday afternoon and was then returned to City Jail where he was to be held under $25,000 bond for officials from Georgia.

FBI agents and local police arrested Cochran at the Cloverleaf Motel, 1300 No. 10th, early Friday morning. They were working under a special warrant issued in Atlanta, Ga., charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for bank robbery.

The FBI said Cochran and unidentified man held up a bank at Tryon, Ga., Jan. 8, and made off with about $10,000.

Deford said Cochran had in his possession at the time of his arrest two $50 bills which were taken from the bank at gun point.

Cochran was registered at the motel under the name of Bernard Chastin, according to the FBI. He offered no resistance.

The FBI said since the Tryon bank was not federally-insured it does not come under the federal bank robbery statute and Cochran had been sought under the fugitive warrant.

Deford said Cochran was arrested Jan. 20 in Florida and returned to Fayetteville for trial, but he escaped local authorities at the jail Feb. 26.

Michael aimed what he believed was an unloaded 22-caliber rifle at Gerald's chest and fired.

Gerald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Castle, was
